TESTIMONIALS

"Benjamin Longman possesses a pure and yearning tenor voice that is equally effective singing tender and poignant ballads as it is delivering cutting and sardonic observations on the inadequacy of love."

- CALGARY FOLK FEST

"...a true professional...graceful, lilting folk played with equal parts elegance and deeply felt passion"

- LEONTK.COM

"A stunning display of art, atmosphere, and beauty"

Benjamin Longman is an English singer-songwriter, multi-instrumentalist, and photographer, now based in Calgary.

He began performing around London under various guises from a young age, and has spent the past 10 years sharing stages with such artists as Martin Carthy, Hudson Taylor, Foy Vance, Khari Wendell McClelland, Donovan Woods, William Prince, Darlingside, 100 Mile House, Jordan Klassen, Carter Felker, and many others. In the studio he has featured on recordings by Jann Arden, Lisa Anderson, Rosalind, Ann Taylor, Adam Van Wielingen, and Evan Freeman (upcoming).

Since moving to Canada in 2015, he has steadily built up a reputation as one of the most promising original songwriters in the Calgary folk and indie scene, as well as a sought-after sideman and session player. With three (long) EPs under the belt and a full-length album on the way, Benjamin's music represents the cutting-edge of indie/alternative folk songwriting, with the complexity of Nick Drake, the conviction of David Bazan, the melancholy of Gillian Welch, and the unpredictability of Tom Waits.
